A Stop in Portland I never got to go to Portland before and it is one of those places that I really wanted to go to. Portland is a beautiful city, and when you get over to the west side of the Cascades it is a totally different feeling. Portland is covered in trees and green grass and of course there are cute animals, but you get the feeling that it is all a little too clean. A lot of it remind me a little of the cities that we lived in in Japan. It is a cute and beautiful city, but it would be perfect if we could take a little dirt with us. We only had about 2 days in Portland, but I plan to go back one day. The city is very spread out, but it is also very accessible, so that was nice. There are lots of different neighborhoods and the city is very clean, which I like. It also has lots of hiking and walking opportunities, which I totally love. This way we got to get in a little nature exercise, and I felt a lot better when we came back home. We stayed in a little cabin in Tom's backyard. It was really nice and the kids had a lot of fun. We went to the zoo, and I got to hang out with some friends from college and we made a little adventure of it. It was fun to go out and just stay together and enjoy the day. It was perfect. The cabin was decorated really cute and everything was made by us. We didn't even buy anything except a couple of pot holders that were for the bonfire. I would definitely recommend renting this vacation cabin. We had the place all to ourselves and it was so nice to have our own space. I loved every second of it.
